

Meet Mr. Gunter

I am thrilled to be a part of the Sixes community. Sixes Elementary is indeed a great place to serve. Previously I have worked at Oak Grove Elementary, Boston Elementary School, E. T. Booth Middle School, the CCSD Technology Department and Polaris Evening School. I have served as a general education, special education and technology education teacher. I have also had the pleasure to work with the district to provide a variety of professional development classes for our district's teachers and staff. Additionally, I have coached high school basketball, volleyball, led numerous school clubs, served as faculty advisor for the school news and even been the sponsor of the middle school dance team!

While at Boston Elementary School, I was honored to be selected as the 2005-2006 Teacher of the Year. A few years later, I was selected to be a founding faculty member at Oak Grove Elementary School and Fine Arts Academy when our school district launched its Fine Arts initiative. I served as the technology instructor and worked in a variety of leadership roles. Each of these opportunities have helped prepare me for my role as AP here at Sixes.

My family has lived in Cherokee County for nearly 3 decades. I graduated from Etowah High School in 1989 and attended Presbyterian College in Clinton, South Carolina where I graduated in 1993. I received my Master's Degree in Education from Jacksonville State University and I completed my Specialist Degree in Educational Administration from Kennesaw State.

My college sweetheart and I have been married for over 20 years and we have two daughters. Sydney will attend Georgia Tech in the fall and Brittany will attend Georgia State University. My wife Laura is a 5th grade teacher. We have been active in the community and enjoy serving in a variety of ways - whether through our church or other community service groups. In our free time, we enjoy spending time with extended family, all things Disney, travel (especially cruising) and supporting Georgia Tech!
